Councilmembers Join in Amicus Brief Opposing ICC Construction

by Thomas X. White

All five members of the Greenbelt City Council joined a host of other Prince George's County elected officials in signing on to amicus curiae (friend of the court) filings on Friday, September 7 at the Federal District Court in Greenbelt. The brief opposes construction of the proposed 18-mile Intercounty Connector (ICC), a limited access toll highway between I-270 in Gaithersburg and I-95 in Laurel.

The amicus briefs filed on behalf of the entire nine-member Prince George's County Council, the Greenbelt City Council and other elected county and municipal officials are intended to support the Audubon Naturalist Society of the Central Atlantic States and others as plaintiffs in the Federal District Court case. They oppose arguments raised in cross motions for summary judgment filed by federal defendants, the U.S. Department of Transportation and the Federal Highway Administration (referred to collectively as FHWA) and the intervenor-defendants, the State of Maryland acting on behalf of the Maryland State Highway Administration (SHA).

Specifically, the amicus filings contend that the FHWA and the SHA have ignored concerns and objections raised by Prince George's County during preparation of the Final Environmental Impact Statement (FEIS) for the proposed highway and that the "Defendants' decision-making process violates the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA)."

In addition to the Prince George's County Council and the Greenbelt City Council, other signatories to the amicus briefs are Senator Paul Pinsky and Delegates Justin Ross and Anne Healey of Maryland District 22, representing Greenbelt; Delegates Ben Barnes (former resident of Greenbelt), Barbara Frush and Joseline Peña-Melnyk of District 21 (College Park/Beltsville); and Senator Douglas Peters and Delegates James Hubbard and Marvin Holmes of District 23; Delegate Michael Vaughn of District 24; Delegates Veronica Turner and Kris Valderrama of District 26; Senator Gwen Britt (chair of the Prince George's Senate Delegation) and Delegates Jolene Ivey, Doyle Neimann and Victor Ramirez of District 47.

Municipal signators were College Park Mayor Stephen Brayman and Council Members Stephanie Stulich, Andrew Fellows, Karen Hampton, Mary Cook, David Milligan and Robert Catlin; and the Mayor of Hyattsville.

Judith Davis Throws Her Hat In Ring for 8th Council Term

The second member of the Greenbelt City Council to file as a candidate for re-election is its current mayor, Judith F. Davis.

Known to one and all as just "J," Davis is in her seventh term on the city council. She has served as mayor since 1997.

Prior to her election in 1993, she was a member of the city's Advisory Planning Board (APB) for 10 years and was elected chair by that board's members for five years from 1988 to 1992. Davis is the council liaison to the Friends of the Greenbelt Museum and to the Anacostia Trails Heritage Area board of directors.

Presently Davis is the council's representative to the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments (COG) board of directors. In 2005 she was elected chair of the COG board and served for one year. Davis is a member of COG's Chesapeake Bay Policy Committee on which she has served since its inception. Currently she is the committee's vice chair. She is COG's liaison to the Advisory Board of the Institute of Regional Excellence and has been appointed to COG's Ad Hoc Elected Officials' Green Building Committee and the Climate Change Steering Committee. In the past Davis has served on COG's Budget/Finance Committee, Ad Hoc Digital Divide Task Force, Strategic Planning Committee and Executive Director Search Committee.

In 2005 Davis was appointed to the Energy, Environment and Natural Resources Policy and Advocacy Steering Committee for the National League of Cities. She is a past president of both the Prince George's County Municipal Association (PGCMA) and the Prince George's Elected Municipal Women. Davis served nine years on PGCMA's board of directors. This past June, Davis was re-elected to the Maryland Municipal League's board of directors and its executive committee, having previously served eight years on the board and two years on the executive committee. She is a member of Women in Government Service, Women in Municipal Government and the Maryland Mayors Association. In November 2002 Davis became a Graduate Fellow of the Academy for Excellence in Local Governance established by the Institute for Government Service.

Judith "J" Davis

Davis was appointed by the County Executive for five years to the Proposal Advisory Group for the Community Development Block Grant Program of the County's Department of Housing and Community Development. She has also served on the county's Zoning Ordinance Review Task Force as one of its two municipal appointees.

Davis retired in 1999 after 30 years as a sixth grade teacher employed by the Prince George's County Board of Education. An educator for 35 years, she holds bachelor's and master's degrees from West Chester State University in West Chester, Pa. She served the Prince George's County Educators Association (PGCEA) as board member and treasurer and chaired host subcommittees of the National Education Association for three national conventions.

A condominium owner in the Greenbriar subdivision, Davis moved to Greenbelt in 1975 and soon became active in local affairs. She was elected to the board of directors of Greenbriar Phase I from 1979 to 1993. She served as carnival chair for the Labor Day Festival Committee from 1981 to 1997. In 1995, Davis was a member of the Project Design Committee that formed GIVES, the Greenbelt Intergenerational Volunteer Exchange Service, of which she is a charter member. She was re-elected to the GIVES board of directors for a sixth term as vice president in June 2006. She was asked to be the honorary chairperson for the Greenbelt Pink Ribbon Ride from 2002 to 2004. In 2004, she was asked to serve on the Community Advisory Council of the Greater Prince George's Business

Greenbelt Elementary School Celebrates First Patriot Day

by Vicki Kriz

As President George W. Bush officially pronounced September 11, 2007, as the first official Patriot Day, so did Greenbelt Elementary students and staff hold their first Patriot Day celebration in an early morning school assembly to honor local heroes.

Organized by vocal music teacher Dara Case and emceed by sixth-grader Min Kang, the assembly featured a school-wide recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance and singing of the national anthem. Several students then read aloud excerpts from the children's book "Messages to Ground Zero: Children Respond to September 11, 2001," by Shelley Harwayne.

School Principal Kimberly Seidel awarded the assembly's

Landscaping Firm Helps Clear Historic Cemetery

by Brian St. George

On June 29 in celebration of their founder, Theodore Brickman, Sr., Brickman Landscaping provided the City of Greenbelt a gratis cleaning and maintenance of the "Old Turner Cemetery" off Ivy Lane at Edmonston Road. Every June 29 is Founder's Day at Brickman's; each of their 135 facilities across the United States provides similar services to various churches, veterans' facilities and similar properties.

Often the company's office workers will make up the team that gets the job done on this day to remind them what the company does day in and day out. According to Dan Hartman, the horticulturalist involved with the project, Brickman takes care of the modern graveyard and got the idea of clearing the historical property when he was talking to

Letters to the Editor

Do Not Close The Overpass

As concern increases over greenhouse gas emissions, peak oil and respiratory illnesses such as asthma, I feel we need to promote alternatives to the automobile, not shut them down. When I hear proposals to close the Spellman Overpass or to gate it at night, I am concerned that walking and bicycling are not fully recognized as real forms of transportation.

This thinking is not confined to Greenbelt. On the Lehrer News Hour, U.S. Secretary of Transportation Mary Peters was concerned that not all of the latest federal transportation bill was being spent wisely. She stated, “Well, there’s about probably some 10 percent to 20 percent of the current spending that is going to projects that really are not transportation, directly transportation-related. Some of that money is being spent on things like bike paths or trails.” She is implying that only roads, highways and bridges built to carry cars and trucks qualify as “real” transportation infrastructure, while also leading us to believe that hiker/biker trails get a much larger piece of our federal transportation budget than the actual approximately 1 percent.

The Spellman Overpass was made possible by federal funding. Secretary Peters would likely say it too was not “real” transportation, yet it is the only safe and practical way to walk or bicycle over the BW Parkway, especially at night. As such, it is a major transportation conduit between points east and west. I regularly cycle to NASA Goddard over the Spellman Overpass and occasionally need to return late at night.

The Spellman Overpass is as critical to walkers and cyclists as the nearby Greenbelt Road bridge is to car commuters. We certainly have problems with crime in Greenbelt that need to be addressed but I do not feel that closing, even at night, a critical piece of transportation infrastructure is the solution. We also have a problem with high rates of car theft, yet no one has proposed closing the Greenbelt Road bridge. Closing the Spellman Overpass to reduce crime is like closing the Greenbelt Road bridge to prevent car thieves from escaping!

THANKS!

Thank you to all the people who donated books to the Greenbelt Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association Labor Day book sale. The PTA collected around 24,000 books to sell, raising more than $5,000 for the school. Thanks also to all the people who bought books at the festival and especially to those who made additional donations to the PTA.

The Greenbelt Co-op supplied space for collecting the books and we thank Co-op manager Bob Davis and all the staff for their help. Many volunteers also helped during the book sale by moving, sorting and selling books. Thanks also to the Labor Day Festival committee for arranging our new location and tent and to Public Works for helping us move pallets and recycle leftover books at the end of the Festival. Thanks to McCormick Paints for the loan of pallets.

The Labor Day book sale is the PTA’s biggest fundraiser of the year. Money raised helps to fund school events such as the Multi-cultural dinner, Safety Day and the Spring Fair; to support art, music and science programs at the school; for teacher appreciation and student awards; and to buy items the school needs.

We thank you all for your contributions to the education of Greenbelt’s children!

Pity the Little Fishes

After attending this year’s Greenbelt Labor Day Festival, we’re very pleased with the addition of the recycling containers, additional police presence and the new location for the book sale. We’d love to see a Mr. Greenbelt Pageant next year and/or maybe a Senior’s Pageant!

Regarding festival fare, there are very few choices for vegetarians and vegans. And couldn’t we do without prizes that simulate weaponry? Don’t we get enough of the real thing on TV, the movies, in songs and in our communities?

What’s more upsetting is fish being given away as prizes. Each fish is kept in its own plastic bag with some water. Fish kept in bags for more than the allowable four hours maximum time are susceptible to a slow, agonizing death.

How many hours does a winner stay at the festival until ready to go home? What happens when there are fish left over? Last year, many bags of fish were left in their blue buckets overnight; air loss was observed, i.e., wrinkling/shriveling of plastic bags were evident. Living creatures should not be given as prizes.

We did sign up last year to be on the Labor Day Festival Committee but were never called. Maybe it’s time to break away from some traditions and try new things. A little more Greenbelt and a little less “Rosedale” would benefit every festival goer.

Meeting to Determine New Deal’s Future

The New Deal Café board has released a report of the Café’s financial troubles and the several possible outcomes – closing the café or several ownership alternatives to closing. The report is intended to provide members of the cooperative and patrons more information on the five motions to be considered at a special membership meeting to be held next Sunday, September 16 at the Café.

The informational report was developed by the board to explore the pros and cons of each of the five alternative solutions to the Café’s financial problems. An informal public forum was held last Sunday to discuss the alternatives. Members have been encouraged to discuss the alternatives online prior to the meeting. The informational package is available at the Café and is posted at www.newdealcafe.com.

The board is investigating several questions raised at the forum and is seeking more details on the alternatives to closing. The document will be revised prior to the special membership meeting when new information is obtained.

Obituaries

Patrick L. Pritchard

Patrick L. Pritchard, a 27-year resident of Greenbelt died on Friday, August 31, 2007, at the age of 82.

He and his wife of 61 years, JoAnne, lived in 6 Court Ridge Road. He very much appreciated their friendly neighbors, the lively camaraderie of court parties, walks around the lake and the peacefulness of the woods that give Greenbelt its unique appeal.

Pat served his country in the United States Navy, eight years of his service while in active duty. In WWII, he began his career as a radioman and code breaker aboard the Hunter Destroyer Escort USS Hubbard among other duty stations. He had a gift for languages and used his knowledge of the German language to decode Nazi submarine reports and was one of the first to develop use of the HFDF (direction finder) technology to locate and disable U Boats that were destroying Allied vessels. He was awarded a Bronze Star for his role in a successful campaign. He attended Naval Intelligence school in Washington, D.C., where he majored in Russian language. He served in the rank of Lieutenant JG, and received the National Defense Service Medal. After an Honorable Discharge, he re-entered the Navy as an Intelligence officer for the newly-formed National Security Agency in 1952 and remained there as part of Naval Intelligence for three years, finally continuing on as a cryptologist and intelligence analyst for the NSA in civilian capacity for the next 30 years.

He greatly loved his work as a cryptologist and in looking back on his life, he felt particularly satisfied that he was able to make some difference in keeping the world a safer place. He was able to put disparate intelligence data together in order to "connect the dots" and accurately determine significant threats to the US. He was especially proud of a report he wrote exposing Soviet Nuclear submarine production that was sent to Eisenhower and thus used to confront the Kremlin, his role in identifying the existence of Soviet missile sites via photo interpretation as a member of NPIC and advising Robert Kennedy and others of the imminent threat that led to the Cuban Missile Crisis and his efforts in putting together a comprehensive report identifying elements that would lead to the end of the Cold War.

After retirement and moving to Greenbelt in 1980, Patrick spent a good portion of his remaining years pursuing his love for research. He painstakingly developed a detailed work (as yet unpublished) outlining his theories of the mathematical and astronomical attributes of the Egyptian Pyramids, Stonehenge and other ancient sacred structures across the Earth. Comparing their properties, he formulated a convincing hypothesis that they were related to one another in purpose and design.

He also enjoyed preparing genealogical research to benefit subsequent generations and did so up until the time of his death.

Pat was highly respected because of his unwavering character traits of integrity, humility and never compromising the truth. He was a role model to many friends and relatives, especially younger generations that often visited to enjoy intriguing discussions about philosophy, history, political analysis and the many books that he loved so much. He was "adopted" by many of his children's friends as their own. He loved to serve visitors as chauffeur and tour guide. He was always there to help those who needed a hand or were in trouble. He will be greatly missed.

He is survived by his wife Jo of Greenbelt; his sons Marc of Asheville, N.C., and Evan of Saugerties, N.Y.; daughter Lynn of Miramichi, N.B. Canada; sister Betty (Robert) of Woodstock, Ga.; two grandsons, Brian and David; and several nieces and nephews.

STOP, LOOK and LISTEN

As we see the flowers bloom and trees turn green, it reminds us of the one who created the serene nature in perfect harmony. It is our job now to keep this harmony in our dealings as well, as the Creator reminds us: "The sun and the moon follow courses (exactly) computed; and the herbs and the trees bow in adoration. And the skies He (God) has raised high, and He has set up the balance (of justice), in order that you may not transgress due balance. So establish weight with justice and fall not short in the balance!" — The Holy Qur'an, 55:5-10

NOTICE OF CHARTER AMENDMENT RESOLUTIONS

At its regular meeting of August 13, 2007, the City Council adopted two resolutions to amend the City Charter. As required by state law, these resolutions will be posted in their entirety for 40 days, until September 22, at the Municipal Building, as well as on the City’s Web site at www.greenbeltmd.gov. Copies may also be requested of the City Clerk. Each charter amendment will become effective on October 2, 2007, unless a proper petition to submit the amendment to the voters on a referendum is filed as permitted by law. This notice is given to provide fair summaries of the two resolutions, as also required by state law.

Charter Amendment Resolution No. 2007-1

A Resolution . . . to Amend the Charter of the City of Greenbelt . . . by Amending Section 31, Titled “Election of Council” to Clarify a Certain Requirement for Holding a Runoff Election: Section 31 of the City Charter lays out a number of situations in which a runoff election would be required to determine which candidates had properly been elected to the City Council. It indicates that if fewer than five candidates receive the required minimum number of votes (equal to 40% or more of the number of voters voting in the election), a runoff must be held. The amendment to the charter specifies that this would apply only if more than five candidates are running. In a case where only five candidates were running, no runoff would be required if not all five receive the minimum number of votes.

Charter Amendment Resolution No. 2007-2

A Resolution . . . to Amend the Charter of the City of Greenbelt . . . to Empower the City Council to Require Reporting of Contributions and Expenditures Made for the Purpose of Furtherance of or Opposition to Any Ballot Question: Section 21 of the City Charter empowers the City Council to provide for the reporting of contributions and expenditures made either in support of or in opposition to the nomination and election of candidates running for City Council. The amendment to the charter would also allow the City Council to require similar reporting of expenditures made in support of or opposition to any issue, principal or proposition submitted to the voters as a ballot question at an election. It is noted that this is enabling legislation only. It does not legislate a requirement for such reporting. It authorizes the Council to require such reporting if Council later chooses to take action to do so.

The Friday, September 7 filings met the District Court’s deadline for filing briefs in time for a scheduled October 1, 2007, hearing on oral arguments on the NEPA issues involved in the plaintiffs’ challenge to construction of the ICC. The filings consisted of an eight-page motion requesting leave to file, which outlined the critical interests of the amicus signatories and the damage and harm that the ICC will cause to citizens of Prince George’s County. An attached 17-page memorandum of law supported the plaintiffs’ motion for summary judgment in the case.

The motion to file argues that the concerns of the Prince George’s County Council and other governmental bodies have been “glossed over” in the decision-making process and “falsely” portrayed the ICC as “supported on a bipartisan basis by local, state and federal elected representatives as well as the public and planners.”

The motion claims that the environmental impact study “relies on an obsolete master plan adopted in 1990, which does not represent the current policy and plans for Prince George’s County and ignores the [county] 2002 General Plan.” The filing also points out that the environmental impact study also ignores the fact that Prince George’s County has deleted the ICC from its list of priority transportation projects in favor of others that better serve county interests for employment and housing growth.

The amicus also cites the regional jobs-to-housing imbalance that is responsible for most of the congestion on the Capital Beltway in or near the ICC study area. It asserts that the ICC will exacerbate the harmful impact of that imbalance on Prince George’s County residents by wasting scarce transportation resources on the ICC in a non-priority area of the county and away from priority areas for economic growth designated by the county’s general plan.

“If the ICC is constructed, growth in Prince George’s County’s employment base will be constrained, without any improvement to east-west commuter congestion for most county residents and commuters,” the amicus brief continues. It cites “the already booming Montgomery County job market and its tax base, keeping Prince George’s County and its residents in a weaker position with an unbalanced economy, further exacerbating regional transportation inequities and deficiencies.”

Pollution Cited

Finally, the amicus motion points out that the further pollution caused by the ICC and its associated new development, combined with more flooding and erosion will undermine Prince George’s County’s efforts to improve the Anacostia watershed.

Memorandum of Law

The memorandum of law continues arguments made in the motion regarding distortions and mischaracterizations of actual county plans and positions relating to the ICC contained in the environmental impact study. It charges that these distortions reflect a serious flaw in decision-making on the project.

The plaintiffs claim that the proposed project ignores the current planning objectives and goals from every local land use authority.

In their opposing briefs, both FHWA and SHA assert that “[a]n east-west regional highway facility has long been part of local transportation plans in order to support the region’s orderly growth.” The amicus, on the contrary, notes that “state and local limited resources simply do not permit continued sprawl development in non-priority areas such as that served by the ICC.”

Despite repeated attempts by Prince George’s County to correct the distortion of its position, the environmental impact statement makes no attempt to reconcile the inconsistency and apparently buried the only acknowledgment of the county’s formal opposition to the ICC in an appendix. It instead makes no mention of Prince George’s County’s long record of formal opposition to the ICC, despite the SHA’s awareness of such opposition. “Indeed, the SHA’s brief, according to the memorandum, even boldly asserts that the ICC is supported on a bipartisan basis by local and state and federal elected representatives as well as the public and planners. These characterizations are flatly contrary to the record within Prince George’s County,” the memorandum states. The memorandum asserts that the failure to acknowledge and address the official and frequently stated positions of the single body within Prince George’s County responsible for land use and planning represents a serious flaw in the NEPA process.

The final argument is that the environmental impact statement fails to take into account economic development impacts resulting from state reprioritization of county comprehensive planning policies. It criticizes a study by the University of Maryland to “purportedly analyze economic impacts from the ICC stating,” characterizing it as mostly the construction and use of questionnaires, surveys and interviews to see whether business owners “thought” they would economically benefit from or be more likely to relocate their business (or retain their business location) near the ICC. The memorandum notes that “. . . based upon this flawed study, the FEIS suggests that the ICC would serve to stimulate economic development at the Konterra Business Campus in Prince George’s County. However, the study ignored the constrained local roadway capacity in that area and the limitations on potential zoning increases.”

Conclusion

The memorandum of law concludes that the claim in the supporters’ briefs that the ICC has been reconfirmed by the county’s and the region’s comprehensive plans and has broad support among elected officials is nothing more than political rhetoric and extraordinary selective references from obsolete documents that ignore the last 10 years of Prince George’s County land use and transportation policy developments. The ICC is itself a product of outdated transportation thinking that is out of step with current land use and transportation policies, the suit claims.

As noted above, oral arguments on the NEPA issues in the ICC challenges are scheduled for October 1, 2007, at the Federal District Court in Greenbelt. The plaintiffs indicate there may be an opportunity for additional filings relating to air quality issues that are also part of the ICC challenge. The date scheduled for oral arguments for that portion of the suits challenging the ICC is October 29.

Roundtable.

Davis was selected as Woman of the Year 2000-2001 by the Business and Professional Women/USA. She is also a recipient of an award for Outstanding Leadership and Service in Politics by the Minority Affairs Committee of PGCEA.

Davis maintains active membership in civic organizations such as the Greenbelt Arts Center, Friends of the Greenbelt Museum, the Greenbelt Golden Age Club and the Greenbelt Lions Club. She is also a member of the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club, CCRIC, the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, the Women’s Committee for the National Symphony Orchestra, Friends of the National Zoo and the Sierra Club.

special guests with Principal’s Awards for special school heroes. Those awarded included Judith Davis, the mayor of Greenbelt; Oretha Bridgewaters, the regional assistant superintendent of Prince George’s County School’s Region 2; Mike Fisher, a PGCPs security guard positioned at the school; Marty Parker, an officer with the Greenbelt Police Department; and David Lange, the school’s volunteer coordinator.

In her first year as Greenbelt Elementary School principal Seidel wanted the school’s Patriot Day event to not focus on the sorrow associated with the day but rather on the pride in national and school heroes.

“I think we had the positive twist of celebrating our heroes and that’s what I want it to be: our school heroes,” Seidel said. “[The students] are familiar with the police officers like Marty Parker. They see these guys around and it’s an opportunity for us to be able to recognize them for all the hard work that they do and have a positive twist on it.”

The assembly concluded with students and staff holding hands in what was previously scheduled to be a “community circle” but due to inclement weather, students and staff held hands in rows across the auditorium. The call for holding hands caused the auditorium to erupt in reluctant groans; however students, wincingly in some cases, took each other’s hands to sing a patriotic song and end the assembly with a celebration of unity.

Although the students at Greenbelt Elementary are too young to remember the events or had not yet been born that tragic day, Mayor Davis believes it is important for young children to learn about and to remember September 11.

“You need to know about [what happened] so you don’t repeat history,” Davis said. “Remember that people suffered. It’s not just a sound bite on TV.”

Second graders in Mary Mullenix’s class, Sofie Dabelko and Evan Candey, were only about a year old in 2001, yet have an idea of what Patriot Day means to them.

“Lots of people died. There were firefighters that died,” Dabelko said. “Everyone went to try to help people.”

“What I think it basically means is it’s honoring our country and our flag,” Candey said.

No Tombstones

There are no tombstones in the ground from the original gravesite but one can see the indentations of the graves. Slaves’ graves were often thought to be marked with a single stone and several of these were discovered as the workers completed the clearing. According to Hartman, “I felt like an archaeologist for a day.”

Anyone looking for a place where people aren’t babbling on cell phones, playing iPods, driving cars or motorcycles – a place without crowds, where the inhabitants are very quiet – take a walk over to the Turner Cemetery. Someday we all arrive at a similar destination.

Greenbelters Take Second Playoff Game

The Greenbelters of the Baltimore Beltway Senior Softball League held off Bowie Gold, 10-9, on Wednesday, September 12 at home to win their second of three games in the playoffs. Bowie took the lead in the 7th inning, 8-7, but third baseman Larry Dandridge saved the day by stabbing Bowie line drives in the 8th and 9th innings.

Eli Flam had a double and two singles for Greenbelt. Willie White doubled, singled and walked; Dave Kerr doubled, singled and was robbed of an extra-base hit; Irv Salzberg singled twice. Pitcher/manager Ray Reed doubled, Jim Harbaugh singled and walked, and Dandridge, Jim Cole, Jim Dugan and Lefty Smith all singled. Shortstop Harlan Park and shortfielder Paul Williams flagged down several hot shots; Mac McNamara and assistant manager John Strekel split catching duties.

On Monday, September 10 the Greenbelters pressed visiting Carroll County but lost 17-11, twice leaving the bases loaded in late innings. Fred Bohle, Harlan Park and Jim Dugan led Greenbelt with three hits apiece.

Arts, Museum Jointly Host Tues. Evening of Art, History

On Tuesday evening, September 18 everyone is invited to join the Greenbelt Recreation Department and the Greenbelt Museum for an evening of art and history at the Greenbelt Community Center. All ages are welcome and all programs are free of charge.

The evening begins with a joint reception from 6 to 7:30 p.m. in the Art Gallery. The reception honors the Greenbelt Community Center's Artists-in-residence, whose work is featured in the current exhibition. "Formed and Transformed" highlights the inspiration which participating artists derive from each other's aesthetics, techniques, concepts and personal attributes. Art can build community and a community of artists builds on itself.

Participants in the exhibition include all of the current artists-in-residence: Gina Denn, Loraine DiPietro, Mary Gawlik, Pam Hagerhorst, Kathy Karlson, Marla McLean, Elizabeth Morisette, Celestine Ranney-Howes, Hussein Saidi and Judy Stone. Tom Baker and Jean Newcomb, alumnae of the program, also are participating in the show, which was conceived and coordinated by Loraine DiPietro with the support of the Greenbelt Recreation Department.

"One of the joys of being a resident artist here in Greenbelt is the interaction with the other artists," says Ranney-Howes, a fabric artist and costume designer with the University of Maryland Baltimore County's theater program. "Loraine [DiPietro] and I shared a studio for a year and were always showing each other our newest work, discussing it and occasionally trying to duplicate it in our own media. The results were not often successful but when they were, it was a wonderful experience. It also inspired me to go beyond what I did into new places."

Following the reception the Greenbelt Museum will host a lecture entitled Cooperative America with featured speaker Leta Mach, member of the Greenbelt City Council. The lecture will take place in the Community Center Multipurpose Room beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Cooperatives are businesses owned and controlled by the people who use and benefit from their services. Cooperatives have a long history around the world. In the United States, the first successful cooperative was founded by Benjamin Franklin. Today more than 130 million Americans are members of cooperatives that operate in nearly every industry.

In Greenbelt cooperatives provide financial services, housing, food, news and education. This session will explore the history of cooperatives and the principles that make them successful.

The Greenbelt Community Center is located at 15 Crescent Road. For more information about the "Formed and Transformed" exhibition call Arts Supervisor Nicole DeWald, at 240-542-2057. For information about the lecture Cooperative America, call Greenbelt Museum Curator Jill St. John at 301-507-6582.

Labor Day brought fond memories of Greenbelt and led to the following email from Nancy and Ed Birner: "Ed and Nancy Birner send greetings from the Lutheran Home in Rockville where we are now living. Parkinson's Disease and its complications caused the move and so Ed is living in the main facility while Nancy is in the independent living area. While Labor Day weekend brought to mind many good memories of 50+ years in Greenbelt, it is never far from their minds and hearts. They are thankful for the people who make Greenbelt a special place and for the many who helped during Ed's illness. May God bless you!" The address for the National Lutheran Home is 9701 Viers Drive, Rockville, MD 20850.

Annual Peace Vigil Carries On Despite Carnival Set Up

by Doug Love

The third annual Greenbelt Peace Vigil was moved to Roosevelt Center, as the usual meeting place in front of the library was covered with carnival equipment, somewhat resembling the military equipment we want to see moved out of Iraq.

Folks started coming into the Center and sat around the Mother and Child statue until 6:12 p.m., when the announcements started. Nathan Harrington, a MoveOn.Org organizer, told us that over 600 groups around the country were meeting at the same time. The goal is to bring the troops home safe and now. Over 3700 have died, 25,000 have been wounded and 70,000 to 200,000 Iraqis have also been killed.

The speeches stopped when Ocelia Pearsall, the other MoveOn.Org organizer, came with a basket of War Toll Calendars. These were the lists of soldiers who had died every day during 2007 and their home towns, plus the weekly numbers of wounded. We then took turns reading these names for nearly an hour.

While the readings were going on I asked a few of the folks in the Center what they thought about the vigil. One said, "It's a very good, positive thing. They want the troops to be here and not dying."

A Center regular said, "I'm tired of my taxes going for unresolved issues. I have a friend who's only 21-22, training kids to go to Iraq." One Greenbelter thought it might be more effective if done down in front of the White House.

By 6:30, when names from March 16 were being read, the crowd had swelled to 26. Several shoppers stopped to watch and some participated. Employees from the Co-op came out for their breaks and watched for a while. At 6:35 two folks in motorized wheelchairs came by.

I suddenly noticed that almost all of the fatalities were from small towns. I heard Baltimore mentioned a few times and LA and Chicago once each but I never heard New York, Boston or Philadelphia mentioned. In fact small towns and small cities seemed to be called with equal frequency.

I knew some of the Midwestern small towns well and noticed further that college towns, with their preponderance of draft-age youth, were not being called. I suspect that this is because in college towns and big cities the Bill of Rights Defense Committees have been somewhat successful in getting kids to opt out of being pressured into the military. The most named towns were in California and Texas.

By the end 24 people had read. Vigil candles in glass holders were passed out and Shirley Middleton reminded us that there are even more fatalities in Iraq of Americans killed in nonmilitary situations. She also noted that many babies are being born deformed from depleted uranium in the environment. And 68 percent of those dying are in the 17 to 25 age group, affecting the entire generation.

Several of us spoke of our concerns for the children and young adults and our country's future. After a moment of silence announcements were made of the marches on the National Mall on September 15 and October 27. It was a vigil that we will remember for many years, at the turning point where we have started winning the war of reason over fear.
